

UCP Kids presents

THE BRIDGE BETWEEN

Workshop/Community Recreation & Therapy Showcase

May 17, 2010

5:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

UCP Community Service Centre • 4638 Centre Ave. • Oakland • Convenient, on-site parking

About the Workshop

Many children with disabilities receive therapies ... physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy, and more. While therapies can be monumental in helping children develop specific skills needed for day-to-day living, school success, independence, and social competence, it is important to also view therapy as a “bridge” to the overall community. When therapies are viewed in this manner, they address what skills can be developed within a therapeutic setting that will be beneficial for the individual’s participation in activities within the community. This then sets the stage for inclusion and acceptance. This workshop will feature a panel of four therapeutic professionals discussing the importance of viewing therapy as a complement to community activities and vice versa.

Community Recreation & Therapy Showcase

Don’t miss the evening’s special Community Recreation & Therapy Showcase, which will feature exhibitors that offer a unique approach to therapy and/or provide a specific niche of service, as well as exhibitors highlighting inclusive recreation programs that can complement therapy and provide therapeutic benefits to children in a fun setting.
